CALL FOR PAPERS

Twenty-First International Conference of Europeanists
Washington, D.C., U.S.A. • March 14-16, 2014
Organized by the Council for European Studies (CES)

Resurrections

In the wake of crisis in Europe, bits and pieces of the past are being resurrected as a means of understanding the present and imagining the future. Historical figures are re-evaluated and held out as models, once-dismissed ideologies reappear as possibilities or as bogeymen, myths and symbols from the past crop up in new productions, and old political and economic institutions are revived as alternatives for action. But resurrections are not simply about nostalgia, and they aren't just a restoration of the past in unchanged form. Resurrections necessitate fundamental transformations: inserting old things into new contexts, changing their natures, and assigning them new meanings and values. For CES 2014, we welcome papers that relate to the theme of "resurrections." What elements of Europe's past, and present, are amenable to reanimation? How do they work in contemporary debate, and how is their relevance to the present disputed? What is the process through which they are revived and how are they changed as they are brought back to life or combined with new elements?

For the 2014 conference, the Council for European Studies (CES) invites proposals for panels, roundtables, book discussions and individual papers on the study of Europe broadly defined. We encourage proposals in the widest range of disciplines; in particular, we welcome panels that combine disciplines, nationalities, and generations. Although it is not mandatory that papers be related to the conference theme, papers that do so are especially welcome. The Committee will accept only two submissions per person and participants are permitted to present in a maximum of two sessions.

We strongly encourage participants to submit their proposals as part of an organized panel. Full panel proposals will be given top priority in the selection process by the program committee. Participants may find it useful to connect with like-minded scholars through the growing number of CES networks, links to which can be found here: <http://councilforeuropeanstudies.org/research/research-networks>

Proposals may be submitted from August 15 to October 1, 2013. Participants will be notified of the Committee's decisions by December 1, 2013. Information on how to submit will be posted on the CES website and disseminated through its newsletter. To subscribe to the CES newsletter visit: <http://councilforeuropeanstudies.org/>

21ST INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE OF EUROPEANISTS

CALL FOR PAPERS

WASHINGTON, D.C., USA
MARCH 14-16, 2014

RESURRECTIONS

About CES

The Council for European Studies is the leading international organization for the study of Europe. The Council's mission is to produce, support, and recognize multidisciplinary research on Europe through a wide range of programs and initiatives.

About the conference

The conference will bring together the world's premier scholars and policy researchers working on Europe. It will also offer numerous opportunities to connect with old friends and new colleagues.

Deadlines

All submissions must be received by October 1, 2013. Submitters will be notified of the status of their proposals no later than December 10, 2013.

In the wake of crisis in Europe, bits and pieces of the past are being resurrected as a means of understanding the present and imagining the future. Historical figures are re-evaluated and held out as models, once-dismissed ideologies reappear as possibilities or as bogeymen, myths and symbols from the past crop up in new productions, and old political and economic institutions are revived as alternatives for action. But resurrections are not simply about nostalgia, and they aren't just a restoration of the past in unchanged form. Resurrections necessitate fundamental transformations: inserting old things into new contexts, changing their natures, and assigning them new meanings and values.

Thus, for its 2014 conference the Council for European Studies (CES) invites proposals for panels and papers that relate to the theme of "resurrections." What elements of Europe's past and present are amenable to reanimation? How do they work in contemporary debate, and how is their relevance to the present disputed? What is the process through which they are revived and how are they changed as they are brought back to life or combined with new elements?

CRISIS & CONTINGENCY: STATES OF (IN)STABILITY

20TH INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE OF EUROPEANISTS
AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS • JUNE 25-27, 2013

SESSION TIMES

The 20th International Conference of Europeanists will convene each morning at 9 a.m. Each session slot is allotted one hour and 45 minutes, with a 15-minute break in between each session and an hour and 15 minutes for lunch. There will be four session slots throughout the day, two before lunch and two after. The first session of the day will begin at 9 a.m. and go until 10:45 a.m. The second session of the day will begin at 11 a.m. and go until 12:45 p.m. Following a lunch break, the third session of the day will convene at 2 p.m. and go until 3:45 p.m. The fourth and final session of the day will start at 4 p.m. and go until 5:45 p.m.

Following the final session, there will be another fifteen minute break before evening conference events take place. There will be two plenary sessions, one on Tuesday and one on Wednesday evening, both starting at 6 p.m. On Thursday night there will be an array of semi-plenary sessions co-organized by the Council's Research Networks. Following the plenary sessions, there will be receptions, starting roughly at 7:30 p.m.

TECHNOLOGY

Each session room will be provided with a PC computer, a projector, and a projection screen. Session organizers are strongly encouraged to collect all presentations from their session presenters before the conference and then arrive at their session room early to pre-load those presentations onto the computer. Both these actions will help prevent technological delays during the session.

For the first time in 2013, there will also be an official conference app available for download on all Android, Apple, and Blackberry devices. The app will include information about sessions, locations, exhibitors, and conference sponsors, as well as other useful information.

CONFERENCE VENUES

On the next page is a map of the conference venues for the 20th International Conference of Europeanists. The list below provides building name and address info for the highlighted locations. Those building which will be used for conference sessions (as opposed to receptions and other special events) are starred.

About the CES Fellowship Fundraising Drive

After a decade-long commitment, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation recently announced that it will no longer fund the Council for European Studies' Pre-Dissertation Research Fellowship program. As a result, the Fellowship, which has been a cornerstone of the Council's programming since 1972, now faces a funding crisis. The Council is working diligently to secure a new long-term funder. However, to continue awarding fellowships this year, we need your help. Donate now and help us raise $70,000 in "gap" funds by June 30, 2013. Without these funds, the Pre-Dissertation Research Fellowship will be discontinued immediately and, possibly, forever.

Why you should give

The Pre-Dissertation Research Fellowship dramatically advances and improves dissertation projects. Each fellow receives a $4,000 direct award intended to finance 6-8 weeks of early field research in Europe. But the fellowship doesn't end after a few months in the field. It includes informational programs, as well as publication and conference presentation opportunities that accelerate early career advancement.

In recent years, the Council has awarded an average of 20-25 Pre-Dissertation Research Fellowships each year to students from a wide range of institutions. Here's why you should help us keep the program alive for future generations:

Sharpen research and shorten time-to-degree

CES Pre-Dissertation Research fellows produce better dissertations, faster. In today's job market, this makes all the difference in the competition for a meaningful and remunerative academic job.

Support the study of Europe

In an age of diminishing attention to Europe, only Europeanists are eligible to receive this amazing fellowship, and the Council is committed to supporting all aspects of the study of Europe.

Sustain the humanities

Funding for the humanities is increasingly hard to come by, yet the Council regularly awards 40%-50% of its pre-dissertation fellowships to those studying European art, culture, literature, or history.

Even the playing field

Many wealthy universities also invest in providing early dissertation support. However, students at poorer schools are not so lucky. The Pre-Dissertation Research Fellowship helps even the playing field by providing support for students at a wide range of schools.

Build an international research community

This much-beloved program supports professional development and networking by bringing fellows together with their peers and senior colleagues, encouraging international dialogue and the exchange of ideas.

Meet the demands of a historic moment

Europe is in a period of historic challenge which, like the Cold War and its aftermath, will require energetic researchers able to address big questions. Our predecessors made the investments needed in their time. Now it is our turn. We must ensure that young people have the resources needed to face today's challenges.

Strategy

In order to keep this extraordinary program alive, CES has adopted a two-pronged approach. First, it is working diligently to secure a new long-term funder by reaching out to foundations and other financial partners. Second, the Council is appealing to its institutional friends and individual members to raise $70,000 in "gap" funds to support the continued awarding of fellowships in 2013 and 2014.
