

The Programme in Comparative Media Law and Policy (PCMLP) at the Centre for Socio-Legal Studies, University of Oxford is pleased to announce that registration has opened for the 2012 Monroe E. Price International Media Law Moot Court Competition.

The moot court competition seeks to expand interest and expertise in media law and policy amongst students by giving them an opportunity to interact with leading academics, policy makers and industry players, both from the UK and abroad. The case for this year's competition can be seen here:

In previous competitions we have welcomed teams from Africa, Asia, Europe, the Middle East and North America and we expect that the 2012 competition will be even more international. The oral rounds are held at the University of Oxford and offer students an opportunity to argue a case before a bench of prestigious judges from different legal systems and backgrounds. The oral rounds will be held from 21-24 March 2012.
