

Louise is a public affairs specialist and human rights advocate with over ten year's experience of working at global public policy levels. At WCRF International she heads up the Policy and Public Affairs Department of the world's leading authority on the link between diet, weight, physical activity and cancer. Prior to joining WCRF International she worked at the Consortium for Street Children, driving forward high-impact advocacy strategies through key strategic partnerships with the private, public and not-for-profit sectors. She has previously worked at Amnesty International, the Houses of Parliament and the UN Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights. She is currently a board member of the Consortium for Street Children, an Advisor to the Witchcraft and Human Rights Information Network and a member of the Women's Equality Party. Louise holds a Masters degree in Human Rights from Sussex University (2005) and is an elected Fellow of the RSA.
