

Marie-Eve Couture Ménard is a member of the Quebec Bar and assistant professor at the Faculty of Law of the Université de Sherbrooke. She teaches in the fields of public health law and research ethics. Her research focuses on public health governance, food policy and tobacco regulation. She is also a researcher at the Centre de recherche sur la régulation et le droit de la gouvernance (CrRDG) at the Faculty of Law of the Université de Sherbrooke.