Support position for a researcher
in the fundamental sciences
during parental leave

"equality" support measure

The Faculty of Biology and Medicine attaches particular importance to supporting parents and future parents engaged in an academic career. In order to help them reconcile their family life with their research, the FBM offers researchers in the fundamental sciences section a support position during parental leave.

target population

The support position is intended for researchers in the fundamental sciences who are engaged in an academic career, from the post-doctoral level to the assistant professor tenure track level, and who are taking a leave of absence of at least 4 months following the birth of a child.

offer

A qualified scientist is hired temporarily as technical support for a research project.

The proposed measure differs from a "classic" replacement. Support is offered for the duration of the leave as well as during a transition period before and after.

more information

Conditions for receiving support and content of the application file can be found on the webpage unil.ch/fbm/parental-leave under and "Application process and directives".
