

WHY?

Meeting the challenges faced by society today requires the public sector and public administrations to be innovative and capable of continuously rethinking the way they work. Contributing to this vision is our raison d'être!

For the Public Sector

The public sector requires knowledge, competencies and solutions to address societal challenges at every institutional level. We provide these essential elements!

Meeting today's societal challenges

Public administrations must contribute to the well-being of the population by addressing the challenges of the 21st century. We are committed to this goal!

At the frontiers of knowledge

Knowledge must be at the forefront of public administration. We push this frontier further!

From science to practice

Scientific expertise helps to improve the practices of public administrations. We transfer scientific knowledge to professional practice!

WHAT?

We provide public sector managers with accredited training courses, cutting-edge research, informed opinions and evidence-based assessments.

Accredited training courses

Our training courses cover the entire sphere of public administration. They have flexible formats with interactive teaching methods. We continuously update their content as existing knowledge and needs evolve.

Cutting-edge research

Whether fundamental or applied, our research is orientated towards innovation. We collaborate with Swiss and international academic partners.

Evidence-based assessments

We provide expertise to public authorities in Switzerland and abroad, at all institutional levels. Our advice is based on the scientific advances and extensive real-world experience.

Informed opinions

We actively share our knowledge and research findings. We participate in academic discussions at an international level, where we present our scientifically based considerations.

HOW?

Our school cultivates an interdisciplinary approach orientated towards meeting our stakeholders' needs at local, national and international levels.

Interdisciplinary Approach

We cultivate an interdisciplinary approach through our strong disciplinary foundations combined with our ethos of collaboration.

Local, national and international

We operate within local, national and international environments. We use these settings as fields for our empirical research and integrate such experiences into our training courses.

Focused on needs

Our stakeholders' needs – particularly those of administrations and our students – are our core concern. Our diverse methodologies ensure we deliver and provide them with effective results.

Independent

Our opinions are independent and our findings impartial, regardless of the activity undertaken, its beneficiaries or partners involved.
