

Human Genomics of Infection and Immunity

Prof. Jacques Fellay

Work in the lab seek to explain inter-individual differences in susceptibility and response to pathogens. Leveraging genomic or multi-omic data generation and cutting-edge bioinformatic analytics, we aim at identifying and characterizing the underlying molecular factors, thereby paving the way for targeted treatment options and more personalized approaches to health.