

Clinical research in family medicine

Dr. Yolanda Müller Chabloz

In Switzerland, 85% of antibiotics are prescribed on an outpatient basis. Optimizing the prescription of antibiotics helps prevent the development of antibiotic resistance. The antimicrobial stewardship group is interested in the best way to promote the appropriate use of antibiotics in ambulatory care. We carry out research aimed at better understanding antibiotic prescribing in Switzerland, evaluating the effectiveness of innovative interventions, and the implementation of evidence-based strategies.